

In order to succeed, your desire for success should be greater than your fear of failure