

The farming community in Halhal sub-zone expressed readiness to step up efforts towards effective crop harvesting. They said that their farming plots are presently in satisfactory condition thanks to the all-round preparations made before the onset of the rainy season, on top of the good rainy showers. Halhal, 9 September 2010 – The farming community in Halhal sub-zone expressed readiness to step up efforts towards effective crop harvesting. They said that their farming plots are presently in satisfactory condition thanks to the all-round preparations made before the onset of the rainy season, on top of the good rainy showers.

The local inhabitants further expressed conviction that satisfactory harvest would be obtained. Mr. Mihreteab Asgedom, an agricultural expert, said on his part that this year's rainy season in the sub-zone was up to the desired level, and called on the farming community to report on possible incidence of pests.