

Fruits and vegetables farmers in Elabered sub-zone said that they are working jointly to extensively introduce modern irrigation farming techniques. Elabered, 14 December 2012 – Fruits and vegetables farmers in Elabered sub-zone said that they are working jointly to extensively introduce modern irrigation farming techniques. They made the statement at a meeting during which they asserted that they are in a position to boost production in line with the availability of ample water resources and application of strategic crops.

Mr. Lijam Tesfalidet, chairman of the Association of Fruits and Vegetables farmers in Anseba region, disclosed that working as an Association has guaranteed them various advantages, and that they currently anticipate more gratifying output.

Mr. Araya Tewolde, chairman of the Association of Fruits and Vegetables farmers in Elabered sub-zone, on his part called on farmers to reinforce the virtue of synergy and thereby make significant input to the national endeavors of ensuring food security.

The farmers further stated that they would work hard to expand the organizational capacity of the Association.